HUGHES LEADS IN EARLY BALLOTTING

Justice Gets Total of 328 and Roosevelt Receives 81.

TEST BRINGS ADJOURNMENT

Riot of Cheering Ends in Voting—For Ten Hours Delegates Hear Eleven Nominations—Uproar Is Continuous. Hughes' Lead Grows on Second Ballot.

Chicago, June 10.—On the two ballots taken in the Republican national convention Justice Hughes led the field and gained strength.

His supporters, confident that another ballot would give him a majority, resisted adjournment, but the convention, tired and worn with a continuous ten-hour session, adjourned until 11 a. m.

Record Since 1888. It was the first time since 1888 that a Republican convention has taken more than one ballot to choose a presidential nominee.

On the first ballot Justice Hughes polled 253½ votes. He got 42 from his own state and aside from Oregon and Florida, the remainder were largely scattering.

On the second ballot, he increased to 328½ votes.

It requires 494 votes to nominate.

81 for Roosevelt.

Colonel Roosevelt's topmost strength in the first day's balloting was 81 votes.

Besides Governor Hughes, the colonel, Charles W. Fairbanks and Coleman Dupont of all the seventeen men who had votes on the first ballot alone made an increase on the second.

The expected demonstration for Colonel Roosevelt when he was nominated by Senator Fall of New Mexico, lasted forty-one minutes and broke the record for this convention.

The Fairbanks demonstration ran next with thirty-five minutes, the Burton demonstration lasted thirty-four minutes and the Hughes demonstration lasted twenty minutes. Delegates cheered eighteen minutes for Cummins.

Result of First Vote.

On the first ballot delegates followed their instructions voting for favorite sons and primary choices.

Senator Weeks, got 105, Elihu Root 103, Cummins 85, Fairbanks 74½; Sherman 66, Roosevelt 65, and Knox 36. Henry Ford got Michigan's 30 votes by instruction.

Former President Taft got fourteen from Texas and the scattering included complimentary votes for Burroughs, Willis and McCall and the instructed vote for other candidates.

On the second ballot Michigan turned twenty-eight votes over to Hughes and gave Colonel Roosevelt two; McCall of Massachusetts turned his vote to the Justice amid great applause; Senator Lodge, who had nominated Senator Weeks, turned his vote to Colonel Roosevelt; W. Murray Crane announced his vote for Hughes; Missouri gave the justice 22 of her 36; New Jersey gave him 16.

How New York Stands.

The New York delegation vote on the second ballot stood Hughes 42, Root 42 and Roosevelt 2.

Pennsylvania's second ballot was Knox 36, Roosevelt 22, John Wanamaker 5, Hughes 8, Du Pont 2, Root 1, and one not voting.

Before the second ballot was taken one favorite son—Governor Brumbaugh—quit and proposed the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt. The other favorite sons remained through the balloting.

On the second ballot one vote was cast for Major General Leonard Wood and one for Chairman Harding.

Hughes Men Confident.

The Hughes supporters predict they will continue to draw strength and nominate their candidate.

In ten continuous hours the delegates sat through eleven nominating speeches which presented Justice Hughes, Elihu Root, former Senator Burton, Senator Weeks, T. Coleman Du Pont, Senator Sherman, former Senator Fairbanks, Senator Cummins, Colonel Roosevelt, Senator La Follette and Governor Brumbaugh.

Police to Galleries.

There were varying numbers of seconding speeches.

During the uproar that greeted the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt, the police had to be sent to the galleries to stop women tearing bunting from the railings.

Otherwise the demonstrations, although noisy and prolonged, were goodnatured and orderly.

HUGHES REPUBLICAN NOMINEE PROGRESSIVES NAME ROOSEVELT

Amid Wild Enthusiasm the Republicans Make the Nomination of Justice Hughes Unanimous

Speculation as to Whether Roosevelt will Accept Nomination of the Third Party

VOTE AS IT STOOD IN FINAL FIGURES

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 10, 2:02 P. M.—Charles Evans Hughes was nominated the republican candidate for president, securing 949 1-2 votes out of a possible 987. Roosevelt secured 18 1-2 votes and was his closest competitor.

Later Hughes' nomination was made unanimous. Illinois first favorite son climbed aboard the Hughes band wagon. Others followed rapidly.

Cummins withdrew, throwing Iowa in favor of Hughes. Minnesota and both the Dakotas were unanimously for Hughes.

Chairman Harding sent Hughes the following telegram:

"With deliberation and enthusiasm under circumstances that could not have given you a greater compliment and with unanimity never exceeded in past conventions, you have been nominated by the republicans of the nation as our candidate for president of the United States. We congratulate you and the nation."

The selection of Hughes came after Roosevelt had made an eleven hour effort for Lodge of Massachusetts.

The final vote recorded was Hughes 949 1-2, Roosevelt 18 1-2, Weeks 4, Lodge 5, Dupont 5, LaFollette 3, absent 11.

Hughes is Nominated

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 10, 12:36 P. M.—The republicans nominated Charles E. Hughes as their candidate for president.

Chicago, June 10—The nomination of Hughes was made unanimous.

Roosevelt Named

Never Accept Lodge

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 10—Governor Johnson of California, stated the progressives will never accept Lodge and will tell the Colonel so in terms so direct that he will understand it. Pinchot said "Why don't the Colonel name Hughes, he would be equally acceptable to the moose."

Concede Nomination on an Early Ballot

Chicago, June 10—The allies concede the nomination of Hughes on an early ballot. Sherman has released the Illinois delegates for Hughes, and Burton and Cummins are expected to follow. It was noticeable that the noise and excitement and oratory for Roosevelt in yesterday's proceedings was mostly from the galleries, while the hisses came mostly from the floor of the convention where the votes come from.

All Proposals Seen Unavailing

Chicago, June 10—Convinced that all proposals and counter proposals are unavailing the moose radicals state emphatically that they will nominate Roosevelt late this afternoon, and a third ticket seems inevitable.

For Vice President

Chicago, June 10—Sentiment is crystallizing on vice presidential nominations around Borah, of Idaho, and Fairbanks of Indiana. Senator Borah is the progressive favorite.

What Will Hughes Do

Washington, June 10—What will he do if he gets the nomination, is the question regarding Hughes. Some think he will resign on Monday and others think he will delay the resignation.

PEACE REINS IN COLONEL'S HANDS

Word From Roosevelt Anxiously Awaited to Bring Harmony.

HOPE IS TO DEFEAT WILSON

Factions Labor Desperately to Avoid Break Which Would Blast All Chances—Conferees May Agree on Root.

Chicago, June 10.—After two ballots, now as throughout the week, Colonel Roosevelt holds the veto power over the Republican convention.

Whether he will choose to exercise it on Hughes is still a matter of conjecture.

If Colonel Roosevelt notifies the conference of Progressives and Republicans that he cannot support Mr. Hughes, the Republicans will ask him to make a suggestion of another man. They will try to nominate any Republican he may name in the interest of success at the polls in November.

Means Another Split.

If he vetoes Hughes, but declines to nominate a man, the Republican convention in all likelihood will proceed to nominate—presumably Justice Hughes; the Progressive convention will nominate Roosevelt, and the next few weeks will have to determine whether Colonel Roosevelt will abide by his veto and make another third party campaign.

The indications all point to Hughes and harmony. The Justice fell 167 votes short of nomination on the second ballot; no other candidate came anywhere near that figure.

It is a political axiom that you can't beat somebody with nobody; hence the issue favors Hughes unless Roosevelt shall name a somebody and make him a sine qua non.

The reason Roosevelt has the veto power, the reason the harmony conference is being held, is that the Republicans want to beat Wilson. That is the whole point of the negotiation. If they did not fear Roosevelt on a third ticket they would not negotiate with them.

There never was a more regular convention held by the Republican party than this one in the Coliseum.

Two Demonstrations.

There were only two real demonstrations in the convention hall. One came from the delegates and was sincerely and spontaneously for William Taft.

The other came from the galleries and was for Theodore Roosevelt.

One incident of the voting was the weakness of John W. Weeks of Massachusetts and the strength of Charles W. Fairbanks. Weeks slumped from 105 votes on the first ballot to seventy-nine on the second. Governor Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts was responsible for it.

Paying Off Score.

He was paying off old scores. Three years ago Weeks took the senatorship from McCall and he has not been forgotten.

After the preliminary skirmish in the Coliseum, where Hughes led on two ballots and Roosevelt showed strength that surprised old guardsmen, the leaders of the various camps retired for consultation.

In the inner circle of the old guard it was made known that Weeks, Burton, Fairbanks and Root had polled their issues, and that when the time arrived these forces would support Root.

The representatives of Sherman and Cummins refused to go into this conference, the spokesmen of the Iowa senator not liking the company.

The judgment is for defaulted interest payments on a bond issue of $25,000,000. The suit against the railroad, which now is in receivership, was not defended.

WAGE PARLEYS ADJOURNED

Railroad Representatives Are to Present Answers Monday.

New York, June 10.—The conference of representatives of the railroad managers of the country and of their employees over a new wage scale adjourned until Monday to give the railroad managers time to formulate answers to demands raised by the employees.

BAPTISTS HOLD
LAST SESSION

Northwestern Baptist Association
Three Days' Convention Closes
Friday Evening

THANK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
For Auto Ride Given Delegates—Dr.
Sweet Lectured on "America
Among Nations"

The three days' session of the Northwestern Baptist Association came to a close Friday night, while the attendance from other churches was not as large as usual, there were delegates from the Baptist churches at Frazee, Detroit, Battle Lake, Akeley, Laporte, Sauk Center, Little Fork and Park Rapids, besides the state officers and special speakers from the twin cities and Dr. Price from Owatonna.

The delegates expressed themselves as being delighted with Brainerd and the hospitality that was shown them while here. The meetings were unusually helpful and the auto ride which the committee on entertainment of the Chamber of Commerce provided was kindly received. Ten autos loaded left the church at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and visited the new paper mill, Lum park and places of interest throughout the city.

The climax of the Baptist association was reached last night when Dr. Sweet gave his stirring lecture on "America Among the Nations." With the use of a large world map Dr. Sweet told of his trip to all the important nations of the orient. He then spoke of Japan with her fifty-two million people, their wonderful ambition, their domination of the Pacific and the possibility of their becoming the dominating influence in the affairs in the next generation. He spoke of China, of India, of Europe and then of America, with her marvelous opportunity and obligation of making the principles of Christianity the dominating influence among the nations. Seldom have Brainerd people heard a lecture of greater power to grip the mind and hold attention to the end than was revealed in Dr. Sweet's scholarly effort of last night.

The resolutions adopted by the convention follow:

- Resolved, that this association express their hearty appreciation for the cordial hospitality and generous entertainment which the church and people of Brainerd have extended to all delegates and visitors.
- Resolved, that we urge all the churches of the association to become co-operating churches in the five-year program of the Northern Baptist Convention.
- Resolved, that we give our heartiest support and commendation to our denominational papers, especially the Standard Missions and the new publication, The North Star Baptist, issued by our own state convention board and that we urge the introduction of these publications into all our Baptist homes.
- Resolved, that we express our confidence in and hearty appreciation of Pillsbury Academy at Owatonna and that we recommend it to the consideration of parents who are looking for a Christian school of high scholastic standing and moral influence.

ARE AWARDED

Two fine prizes, large silk flags, have been awarded by the State Encampment of the Women's Relief Corps in the Twin Cities to the Brainerd high school for its large turnout and impressive service Memorial Day and the Woman's Relief Corps of Brainerd. ence to which to send their sons and daughters.

5. Resolved, that we extend a hearty vote of thanks to the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce for their kindness in providing a very delightful auto ride for the delegates of the Northwestern Baptist association of Minnesota.

The violin playing of Victoria, aged 14, pleased Mr. Drogseth so much that he gave the girl a $5 bill. When Mr. Drogseth was a boy he lived in the same section of Norway that Victoria's grandmother did and they were playmates.

Some trait of the little girl, coupled with her exquisite music, drew back Mr. Drogseth's memory to the early home days of Norway and it brought tears to his eyes.

FIRST CONCERT OF THE SEASON

Brainerd City Band Gives a Fine Program at Gregory Park on Friday Evening

NEXT CONCERT WEDNESDAY

March, "Gregory," Composed by Prof. Wm. P. Bartsch, Receives Much Applause

The Brainerd City band, in its first concert of the season, played to a large audience at Gregory park. The first number was featured, being the original composition of Prof. Wm. P. Bartsch, a march entitled, "Gregory Park." The melody was carried principally by the basses and trombones. The selection will soon be published. By request it will be repeated at the next concert Wednesday evening, June 14.

Judging from the applause, the "Gypsy Queen" was the best number on the program. This Hungarian overture was very well rendered.

The fancy of the audience was caught by the composition of Tompkins entitled "Beaux Esprits," in which the trombone took the field.

The "Ghost Dance," by Salisbury was very good, also the "Big Ben" selection by Gardner. At the conclusion the band stood and played the "Star Spangled Banner."

It was an ideal evening and the music carried as far south as the high school.

At the Empress Sunday

"The Dragon," which is coming to the Empress theatre Sunday as the next release on the Equitable program, is a beautiful story, most beautifully portrayed. Miss Margarita Fischer, the star, sets out, the personification of youthful innocence and ignorance, to find the dragon which her father tells her lurks amid the enticements of Fifth avenue. She seeks the dragon in all sorts of places and her search brings wreck, ruin, disaster and death to those who had so wrought upon her father's life that it was left bereft of joy, with his wife a wanderer and his fortune gone. In the end the wife is restored to her husband's arms, their schemes brought to naught, and the way in which this is shown is a remarkable illustration of how retributive justice works out its own ends and proves mankind cannot escape the laws of fate.

Washington, June 10.—At the last cabinet meeting before the St. Louis convention President Wilson and his advisers went over details of a platform for the Democrats and discussed the proposed platform of the Progressives and Republicans.

The president's draft of planks will be completed today. He carefully examined the platform adopted by the Republicans and one approved by the resolutions committee of the Progressive convention. Members of the cabinet who discussed the subject with the president said they considered the Republican platform "innocuous" and declared that the Democratic platform will be more progressive.

"No, I'm not going to school at all," steadfastly declared the little chap. "I can't read, nor I can't write, nor I can't sing, so I'd like to know what good I'd be at school?"—Exchange.

WAR ON DANDELION

"Kids Dig Dandelions in Brainerd"—that's what is going to happen on June 14th. This is a fine idea and a good movement to undertake. While this is essentially a kid's affair, parents should enter into the spirit of it and see that their children dig dandelions on that day in places where it will do some good, like on boulevards, streets, or vacant lots near well-kept lawns.

From what we have learned thus far, we venture the guess that the Chamber of Commerce "bit off a big chunk" when it decided to offer 10¢ a bushel for dandelions. Already some children have been picking; of course this is far ahead of the day, but it shows how a little money will put ginger into the kids for an event of this kind.

"Hop to it" youngsters and see how large a pile of dandelions that corner lot on Front and 8th street will hold.

A FRIEND OF LABOR

(Princeton Union, June 8)

That Frank B. Kellogg, now conspicuous in the public eye because of his candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator, was one time seriously considered for the supreme bench of the United States is not generally known.

That organized labor was responsible for the movement in his behalf may possibly be a surprise to some, yet such is the case, and there are records both at Washington and in possession of several well-known labor organizations to bear out the statement. Geographical difficulties alone prevented realization.

The story of how this well-known attorney all but became attached to the highest court in the land, and how organized labor lent its best efforts in his behalf, is one of human interest. It may sound commonplace to the telling, but it is of interest just the same, and if nothing else, forcibly illustrates the point that labor is not always ungrateful. At any rate it was most gracious in Mr. Kellogg's case and the memory of it all still remains.

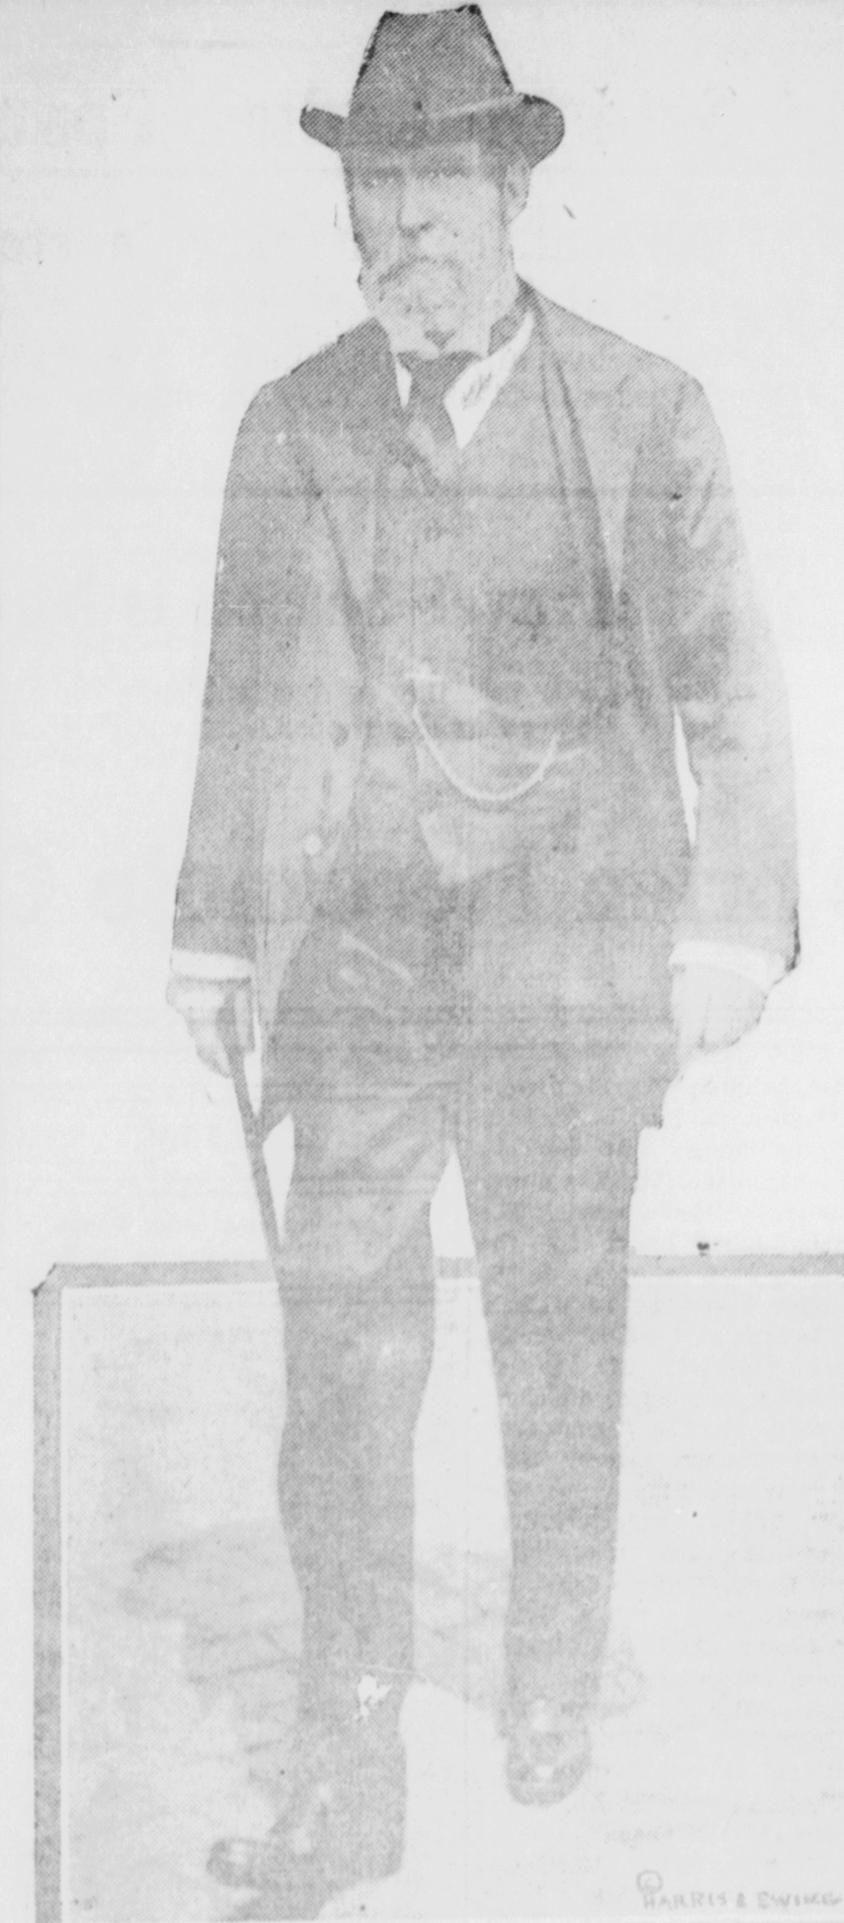

Born to toil himself, spending his youth at the arduous tasks of the farm, making his own way almost from his youth up and securing his education by dint of sacrifice and economy, Mr. Kellogg knew the life of the man who toils, knew how a dollar made its way into the pocket of labor, and when the opportunity offered he showed himself a friend of the man whose struggles were similar to those which he had undergone in reaching the position in life that he had attained. Organized labor learned of his friendship in a peculiar way and although he had not been in a position to demonstrate his fealty to the man in the overalls, and had not come in contact with them except in a casual way, his heart and mind still clung to the cause and only opportunity was necessary to throw the light upon his devotion.

Back in 1908 the Great Western railroad was placed in the hands of a receiver. Its moving spirit was A. B. Stickney, still a venerable and venerated citizen of St. Paul. As head of the line he had been recognized as friendly to the men who toiled with their hands, but owing to the financial and business conditions, and especially the cramped financial condition of this line, he had been unable to demonstrate his friendship.

It was following a period of stringency and business depression that the receivership came. The panic of the fall of 1907 had practically paralyzed business. Wall street was wild and the feverish excitement of that bourse had spread its evil to all parts of the land and to all avenues of trade. Even small business men were anxious and the big banking centers were unable to sleep. In many of the larger cities the clearing houses were issuing certificates in place of currency, short time, and the country was in grave concern over the condition that prevailed.

As is usually the case the first to feel the pinch were the laboring men. Retrenchment was general and it began with the cutting of payrolls, the lowering of wages and the laying off of men. It was thus with the Great Western railroad when the receivers took charge.

Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul was general counsel for the Great Western when the order for retrenchment came from the receivers. Mr. Stickney picked him up when he was a struggling attorney down in Olmsted county, to take charge of the legal end of his growing properties. He was a keen judge of the stuff that is in man, and right here labor was to be the beneficiary of his insight. The period in question was a crisis, not only in the case of the employees of the Great Western, but it portended disaster also to the workmen of probably every other railroad in the country. It simply meant that if a cut was permitted in wages on the Great Western that a similar retrenchment would spread to the other roads of the country and a vast and costly strike would follow. At any rate it was most gracious in Mr. Kellogg's case and the memory of it all still remains.

Born to toil himself, spending his youth at the arduous tasks of the farm, making his own way almost from his youth up and securing his education by dint of sacrifice and economy, Mr. Kellogg knew the life of the man who toils, knew how a dollar made its way into the pocket of labor, and when the opportunity offered he showed himself a friend of the man whose struggles were similar to those which he had undergone in reaching the position in life that he had attained. Organized labor learned of his friendship in a peculiar way and although he had not been in a position to demonstrate his fealty to the man in the overalls, and had not come in contact with them except in a casual way, his heart and mind still clung to the cause and only opportunity was necessary to throw the light upon his devotion.

As retrenchment in big business usually begins with the reductions of wages of the workmen, so it was in the case of the Great Western. The cut directed by the directors was most sweeping and included a schedule of rules as to time that affected every class of employment on the road. Agreements in effect were disregarded, and the several lines of organized labor represented, which included the trainmen, enginemen and switchmen, were practically told that it was either acceptance or the loss of their jobs. That arbitration would avail little was intimated by the receivers.

Mr. Kellogg was in California at the time and was without knowledge of the order or its extent until several days after its issuance. His first information came from the heads of organized labor, who without delay turned to him for relief, and the government which by this time had begun to realize the seriousness of the whole thing. Active on the part of the government at the time was Theodore Roosevelt and the telegrams concerning the trouble and his appeal for a settlement which passed between the two are still of record. The originals which are now in the possession of Mr. Kellogg are among the most prized of his many manuscripts.

Wiring the receivers to delay the order Mr. Kellogg hastened back to St. Paul and at once opened up negotiations for a settlement. While admitting that retrenchment was necessary, Mr. Kellogg believed that it could be done in other ways. He felt the importance of the matter as not only affecting the men in the employ of the Great Western, but the undoubted disastrous effect it would have on labor employed by other lines of railroad and business generally. He knew that if permitted the order would spread to every line of industry in the country, and that misery and possibly bloodshed would be the inevitable result.

Mr. Kellogg reached St. Paul on his return April 1, 1908, and ten days later the receivers published a notice withdrawing the proposed schedule of rules as to time and compensation of engineers, trainmen and switchmen. What followed is memorable in organized train labor circles. Instead of a cut in wages the receivers came to an agreement with the men to use every effort to reduce terminal overtime, constructive mileage and the consumption of coal to a minimum, which would retrench the system sufficiently to allow it to live and pay living wages to those in its employ. Throughout the negotiations Mr. Kellogg was the master-far as the supreme bench is concerned was not realized, but it shows the bond of sympathy between the two and the respect in which the trainmen held him. President A. B. Garrison of the Conductors, afterwards writing Mr. Kellogg said, "What I have done in this connection is a pleasure," and W. S. Stone, grand chief of the Locomotive engineers, supplemented it with the following: "We all realize, I think, it would mean many sacrifices for you to accept such an appointment, but we also realize the need of men like you to fill such places and that is the reason that we gave you the endorsement that we did. My only regret is that the president has not seen fit to name you for the position."

As stated, geographical difficulties alone prevented Mr. Kellogg's possible appointment to the bench, but the story is interesting just the same. To Mr. Kellogg the happenings of that period—his success in preventing the reduction of wages of the employees of the Great Western and later organized labor's appreciation of his efforts—are among his fondest memories.

Enthusiastic Buckman Men

Harry Lee of Browerville, son of Wm. E. Lee of Long Prairie, and A. D. Day, farmer mayor of Long Prairie, both enthusiastic Buckman supporters, were in the city yesterday conferring with the local candidate for congress. They were both confident that Mr. Buckman would be an easy winner in the primaries. —Little Falls Transcript.

Chicago, June 10.—The Republican and Progressive peace forces began their second conference at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. It adjourned at 2 p.m. today. As night wore on meager details of the anti-Hughes conference became known. The spokesman for the Republican faction convinced George W. Perkins that because of personal prejudices against Colonel Roosevelt he could not under any circumstances gather more than 350 votes in the Republican convention in which 494 votes are a majority. Mr. Perkins said that next to nominating Colonel Roosevelt he desired above all to prevent the nomination of Justice Hughes. He asserted that if Justice Hughes were nominated Roosevelt would not support him. He thought Mr. Root was the one member of the allied forces who stood a chance of nomination and of winning the support of the colonel.

Not a word has been heard from Little Falls regarding their line-up for Sunday's game but the home team is taking no chances and are prepared for the hardest fight so far this year. The Brainerd line-up will be as follows:

Larson, second base

Pehle, catcher.

Cook, first base

Noel, pitcher

Benda, shortstop

Bush, centerfield

Erickson, right field

Stallman, third base.

Imgrund, Clark or Molstad, left field.

The management has scored quite a hit with the lady fans by supplying cushions in the grandstand and a big increase in this section of the park has been the result. The cushions protect the clothes and are much more comfortable than the wooden seats. It is expected that a record-breaking crowd will be on hand to enjoy the big baseball classic of the season.

NATURAL GROWTH HORSESHOE POINTS

Invented, Perfected and Patented by H. M. McCarthy, Fort Ripley Horseshoer

IT EXPANDS AS HOOF GROWS

Made in Two Sections and Pivoted at Top—After Once Fitted Requires No Resetting

The "Natural Growth" horseshoe was invented, perfected and patented by H. M. McCarthy, a blacksmith and horseshoer of 23 years experience, who has been in this business in Ft. Ripley the past four years. Associated with Mr. McCarthy in the formation of the company which will manufacture the horseshoes on a large scale, are Fred Kelly, the well known butter-maker of Crow Wing county, now in charge of the Ft. Ripley Creamery and Albert Johnson, of the firm of Johnson Brothers, implement and produce dealers of Ft. Ripley. The principal place of business is Barrows.

So much inquiry has resulted about the new horseshoe since the company was organized that the Dispatch has secured this description of the shoe from the inventor.

It is a well known fact that the old style horseshoe is and has always worked hardship on the horse as well as the man, in that the horse must suffer from the strain of the solid iron shoes preventing the hoofs from taking the natural course in growth, and also from improper shoeing owing to the fact that it requires considerable skill and experience to properly set the old style shoes and a great many men doing this work are incompetent, resulting in crippled horses in many cases. In all instances the man doing horseshoeing has a most tedious and undesirable position, being compelled to heat the shoe several times before getting the proper fit which requires considerable time, and as all horseshoers well know is a hard strain on the back.

In addition to this it must be admitted that the owner of the horse will realize longer service from the animal in allowing the hoofs to grow in a natural condition and avoiding all ailments that otherwise arise, also that the cost of shoes will be reduced to a minimum as they do not require resetting or changing as often as the old style shoe.

The "Natural Growth" horseshoe is so constructed that it expands as the hoof grows, being made in two sections pivoted at the toe. After it is once fitted to the hoof it will not require resetting, but can be left on indefinitely as the calks can be removed and new ones supplied without removing the shoe.

One of its greatest and most valuable features is that it prevents snowballs from gathering on the shoe. It has been proven by tests in actual wear that the snow will not ball up.

The inventor claims the shoe can be set with less work than any other on the market, as they can be fitted to the hoof without heating, thereby eliminating over half the work and cost of setting the ordinary shoe.

It is constructed of the best grade of soft steel iron, is made in two sections jointed at the toe by means of a pivot which allows the shoe to be adjusted to properly fit the hoof. They are made in six sizes. The pivot connected points are made so as to prevent fine sand or dirt from gathering at the joints, and being fastened together rigidly and in such manner that should the strain be applied to one side of the shoe, the pivot will not allow the shoe to twist or become misshaped.

The calks provided are made of high grade steel and are of the anti-slip nature, being made with a wider face and the inner or rear face of the calks being curved produces a greater grip and holding capacity than any other calks. The calks are made with a square shank which is approximately one thirty-second of an inch larger than the opening in the shoe, requiring a little force in driving them into place but making them very rigid. They are very easily removed, however, by means of a specially constructed "V" shaped tool or cold chisel driven under a shoulder on the calk. This operation can be performed in a very short time and without removing the shoe.

The teamsters on Monday are asked to report to O. A. Peterson, of Bye & Peterson, if desiring to work on the road Tuesday at $5 per day.

JEMMY MADISON.

"Withered Little Applejohn," Irving Dubbed the President.

"What presidents we might have had, sir!" a Washington barber lamented soon after Jefferson went out of office. "Just look at Daggett of Connecticut or Stockton of New Jersey! What cues they have got, sir! As big as your wrist and powdered every day like real gentlemen, as they are. But this little Jim Madison, with a cue no bigger than a pestle, sir! It is enough to make a man forswear his country."

Short and wrinkled, with a cast in his eye and a voice scarcely audible in public speaking, the new president did not make a good impression as he began his inaugural address. He was pale and "trembled excessively," and the swaying motion of his body and all the peculiarities of his poor delivery, including his air of having risen casually and with no intention of making a speech and desiring above all things to escape, were as annoying as usual. But he gained poise as he proceeded, and Jefferson was convinced that his friend would develop equal assurance in dealing with the problems of his administration.

That night at Long's hotel in Georgetown, where guests thronged to the first inaugural ball in the country's history, the former president was in evidence again, joyous and smiling, a contrast to the dismal little figure in black standing beside Mrs. Madison, regal in her yellow velvet, pearls and turban. Some thought her the abler, as she was the better favored, of the two. "As to Jemmy Madison," wrote Washington Irving, who had come with a host of others to seek office—"ah, poor Jemmy! He is but a withered little applejohn."

To an intimate this withered little man could talk delightfully, but in the presence of a crowd he retreated into bored and almost repulsive silence. He had had the misfortune to be born with the sober characteristics of an old man. Even in college he had been painfully correct and industrious, doing double work and shunning the slightest appearance of frivolity. His president made the damaging assertion that during his whole stay at Princeton Madison never did an indiscreet thing. It was fortunate that his lively wife was at hand to supply his lack of magnetism.—Helen Nicolay in Century.

On this particular morning, however, Mary fancied that there was a new meaning in his smile, and a light of hope in his eyes, and there was keen interest in her own gaze when the first witness was called.

"John McGlone!"

He was a burly man in a long waistcoat, with hair that grew low on his forehead and was parted in the middle into two careful curls in a fashion popular with a certain type of barkeeper and barber.

He showed no signs of nervousness. On the contrary, he seemed somewhat

NOT TO INFLUENCE MEETING, SAYS BRYAN

Chicago, June 10.—William J. Bryan accompanied by Mrs. Bryan, pushed his way into the press section at the Auditorium just before the morning session opened and an usher who failed to recognize him tried to shoo him into a last row seat.

The commoner flashed his press badge and was taken in tow by reporters who found room for him among his brother scribes. For he is a reporter now, writing two columns daily for a Chicago paper and sporting an ornate press badge on each lapel.

The conciliatory colonel does not regard the platform declarations of the Republican and Progressive parties as a blow to his world peace propaganda.

Mr. Bryan will make no effort to influence next week's Democratic convention in its attitude on preparedness or any other question, he said.

"I am going to St. Louis, of course, but I am going as a reporter," he said. "I am not a delegate and I have no intention to try to usurp the privilege of one."

"I am going to St. Louis, of course, but I am going as a reporter," he said.

"Did you ever know James Pollock?" asked Langdon.

"Sure! I knew Jim well. I bought most of my fancy wines through him, and he used to drop in occasionally when he was passin', just to say howdy."

"Did he ever bring friends with him?"

"Oh, sometimes. Not often." There was a conversational tone in the witness's voice.

"Did you ever hear him quarrel with anyone while in your saloon?"

"No. Jim was sharp with his tongue when he'd been drinkin', but everybody pleased with his importance and answered Langdon's first questions with a glibness that held a touch of the pompous.

He was, he said, owner and proprietor of a large "retail liquor house" and had formerly been "on the force."
